

Descendants of Harry Eaton

From 1750 to Present

Generation No. 1

1. HARRY¹ EATON was born 07 Apr 1750, and died Unknown. He married VIOLET WALLACE 1778, daughter of BENJAMIN JAMES WALLACE. She was born 10 Sep 1756 in Ireland, and died Before 1782.

Notes for HARRY EATON:

The following is from the Centennial book on the History of Madison County, Page 768.

Henry Eaton was a naive of Wales, born there in 1750. At the age of twenty-three he left his native land, crossed the ocean, landed in the United States and settled in the city of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania (in 1773). He served in the Revolutionary war and during his army life he contracted a disease, from the effects of which he died.

The following is from "The Direct Lines: Anderson - Eaton and Allied Families" Authored by Phebe Anderson Eaton. Page 72 and 73.

Henry Eaton emigrated from Wales to Philadelphia with his mother 1760. He was supposed to have owned a parcel of land there. He was a soldier in the Revolutionary War when he met Violet Wallace, the daughter of Benjamin James Wallace. Violet had been born in Ireland and came to Pennsylvania with her parents.

Henry was a private in a Pennsylvania unit, which served under General Greene. After he and Violet were married in 1778, General Greene's troops were sent to South Carolina. Violet left her young son Thomas with her parents and followed her husband. While they were in South Carolina they had an infant daughter but Violet died from complications of childbirth. What happened to the infant daughter is not know but there is a family tradition to the effect that the wife of her husband's colonel took the child. Henry requested leave to go back to Pennsylvania to see his son but only got as far as Philadelphia where he died from dysentery.

The earliest recorded member of this particular line was Henry Eaton. There are conflicting dates regarding his arrival in the colonies. Judge Henry King Eaton thought that he was Welsh but the probability was the Henry Eaton and his widowed mother were English and sailed from the nearest port of embarkation which happened to be in Wales. They landed in Philadelphia in 1760. This date has been documented for membership in the Daughters of the American Revolution by the five who have joined as his direct lineal descendants.

Notes for THOMAS ALEXANDER EATON:

Thomas was left an orphan when only two years old. Until he was fourteen he lived among his relatives. He learned the blacksmith trade and migrated to Natchez, Territory of Mississippi. After a few years he moved to Kingston in Adams County, Mississippi, where he was a blacksmith for 15 years. He met Sarah King, daughter of Caleb King and Mary Swayze. Three of their first six children died in Kingston so they decided to move to Jefferson County, Kentucky, in 1822. From there they moved to Edwardsville, Madison County, Illinois, in April 1836.

Sarah King Eaton died on 29 June 1836 and was buried in the Lusk Cemetery in Edwardsville. In 1839, Thomas married a second time, Margaret Wallace Pomeroy, the widow of William Pomeroy, and the sister-in-law of his son, Henry King Eaton's wife.

Thomas died on 14 September 1849 and was buried beside his first wife in Lusk Cemetery. Margaret died in Jackson County, Illinois, on 4 June 1886.

To the first marriage there were born 12 children but six survived their parents.

Of the two children of the second marriage, only one lived to maturity. Those descendants of the first marriage referred to the descendants of the second marriage as the "Banjamites" after the name of the son named Benjamin Wallace Eaton.

3. HENRY KING³ EATON (THOMAS ALEXANDER², HARRY¹)¹ was born 04 Apr 1811 in Kingston, Adams County, Mississippi, and died 01 Apr 1881 in Carpenter, Madison County, Illinois. He married ELIZABETH CAROLINE POMEROY¹ in Kentucky, daughter of GEORGE POMEROY and SARAH FORWOOD. She was born 10 Sep 1811 in Kentucky, and died 29 Nov 1895 in Carpenter, Madison County, Illinois.

Notes for HENRY KING EATON:

Henry King Eaton was born at Kingston, Adams County, Mississippi, the home of his maternal ancestors, and there was reared on his father's farm. He moved to Jefferson County, Kentucky with his parents in 1822.

He was not content, however, to live the indolent life which satisfied his young friends--boys in his own sphere of life; he was desirous of obtaining knowledge, and lost no opportunity of gratifying the wish to be highly educated. He read and studied, letting no day pass without increasing his fund of information. He did not, however, devote his entire time to study. As a young man he taught school in Kentucky for a while and then took a job working at building a macadamized road from Louisville, Kentucky, to Nashville, Tennessee, for one dollar a day.

In the meantime he had met and then married Elizabeth Caroline Pomeroy. When his parents decided to move to Madison County, Illinois, he and Elizabeth were in the party that migrated. They bought some land and planned to farm by the illness and death of his mother changed their plans.

He worked as clerk in a store during the winter of 1836 and later he, with his brother-in-law, William Pomeroy, successfully conducted a furniture store. After the sudden unexpected death of Mr. Pomeroy, he stayed in business two more years before selling out.

In the fall of 1840 Mr. Eaton engaged in the manufacture of castor oil, with which industry he was connected for a couple of years. He then found his time fully taken up with the performance of the public duties, which he was gradually assuming as a result of the insistent urgings of his friends. In 1839 he was elected to the office of justice of the peace; in 1842 became a deputy sheriff in Madison County. In 1843 he was appointed County Revenue Commissioner and in 1845, commissioner to take the census. This was followed by his election as Probate Judge of Madison County in 1846. He was re-elected in 1847, again in 1849. The title was changed to County Judge. In 1853 he was elected county judge for a term of four years. After which he retired to the farm.

One of his achievements in 1847 was the rough drafting of an act regarding the specific property that should be set-aside for widows and children in an estate. The Madison County Senator presented the bill to the State Legislature and it became, with some additions, a state law, which is still in effect.

Henry King Eaton was very interested in genealogy and his journal, now in possession of his great-granddaughter Mary Elizabeth Eaton Dolley Cavanaugh, has been an invaluable source of information to his descendants about their ancestry.

He formerly belonged to the Whig party and cast his first vote for Henry Clay. Mr. Eaton was regarded as one of the most distinguished politicians in his section of the country. His active public life and his strict principles of integrity in every phase of life made him admired and respected by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

When a young man Judge Eaton married Miss Elizabeth C. Pomeroy, and to this union eight children were born, three of whom died in infancy. The names of those who lived to maturity are as follows; Amanda C., the widow of Professor O. C. Dake; Mary J. (deceased), who married Major Thomas J. Newsham; William P., deceased; Margaret M., who was the wife of John H. Smith; and Henry A., the immediate subject of this sketch.
